COMMITMENT TO GOOD PRACTICE

- Northern Ireland Screen and the BFI are committed to ensuring that we consult with active practitioners within the disabled filmmaking community about current and future projects where there is a portrayal of disability and also in respect of industry access. We want to see films that are authentically and mindfully cast with disabled actors and also see more non-specific casting, creating roles and visibility for disabled actors which do not reference disability as part of the theme or narrative. In support of this and to avoid reinforcing negative stereotypes, we will no longer support work gratuitously featuring facially scarred villains. Supporting equal pay for disabled actors and filmmakers means that Northern Ireland Screen will now consider applications that include project costs related to access requirements for disabled practitioners and will have the ability to provide funding for such elements in addition to a scheme's normal funding cap.

- All productions supported by Northern Ireland Screen will be required to make a contribution to the ScreenSkills Film Skills Fund. The Film Skills Fund directly supports skills and training for the UK film industry. Producers will have to pay 0.5 per cent of their budget to the Film Skills Fund. The ceiling on any one production is capped at £41,800. This should appear as a line item in the budget. This levy does not replace any existing provision for the employment of trainees that may be in the budget: The Film Skills Fund levy is an additional training cost. For further details of how to calculate the levy on your budget contact the Film Administrator at ScreenSkills, Focus Point, 21 Caledonian Road, London, N1 9GB. Tel: 020 7713 9800 or contact Lauren Grace Bergin, laurengrace.bergin@screenskills.com.
- All productions supported by Northern Ireland Screen must commit to, and adhere to, the Northern Ireland Industry Code of Practice published by Northern Ireland Screen. A copy of this code is available on the application website.
